

SCENIC VALLEY FARMS

In 1970 Bob Zielinski and his wife started their family on a piece of land in the Willamette Valley that would grow into Scenic Valley Farms. Today Scenic Valley grows over a thousand acres of pears, wheat, hazelnuts, hops, grass seed, and wine grapes. Bob built a business that is self-sustainable, with an abundance of resources and skillsets. If something is broken we fix it instead of replacing it. That farm mentality flows into the winery and gives us the ability to over deliver on price and quality in every bottle.

The tasting room is also home to antique tractors, and is open to guests every weekend.

Every wine is handmade from vineyard to bottle.

“I JUST WANT TO MAKE THE WINES THAT MY FRIENDS LIKE TO DRINK.”

-GABRIEL JAGLE, WINEMAKER

Gabriel Jagle makes wines that hold up to a foodie palate, but are user-friendly enough for the average person to have with dinner any day of the week. He uses natural wine-making techniques like wild yeast, carbonic maceration, and low sulfur, but always with the ultimate goal of making wines that are clean and delicious.

Brian Zielinski grew up finding arrowheads in the soil that is now the estate vineyard. He remembers sitting on his Dad’s lap in a tractor while tilling the land when Bob told him, “If you care for the ground it will care for you.” This bit of wisdom flows through every choice Brian makes in the vineyard.

“THE VINEYARD IS THE PLACE WHERE FARMING MEETS ART”

-BRIAN ZIELINSKI, VINEYARD MANAGER

LIMITED RELEASE WINES

Our limited release wines are all hand-crafted in small lots of roughly 100 cases each. Some of these wines are made in a Natural Wine style, with wild yeast, native oak, and bottled unfiltered. Others are made Reserve style, with rich texture, new oak, and long-term ageability. Some are just wild experiments. The goal with all of these wines is to create something original, a wine that tells a story, but always with the ultimate goal of being delicious.
