Winemaking Notes: We start with carbonic maceration of pinot noir, to extract bright red fruit flavors from the pinot noir and kick off a wild fermentation. After that we use a combination of whole cluster press and overnight cold soak to give the wine more complexity and depth. We add small amounts of pinot gris and chardonnay to give the wine texture, small amounts of gamay and tempranillo to give the wine extra fruit, and red pinot noir to give the wine more color and depth. It's a long complex process to make a wine that is simple fruity, and fun.
