Fermentation: Harvested between 21.2-23.0 BRIX and wild fermented for 14 days

Tasting Notes: Equal parts fun and serious, this is a wine that is great with pizza or without a food pairing at all and could be served chilled if so desired.

Winemaking Notes: This is the third year we make the red blend, and it's a little different every year. The art of blending is new to us, and it is equal parts fun, creative, and challenging. We kept our base wine as tempranillo, which gives this wine it's dark flavors but light texture every year.

Vintage Notes: A cold winter and a cool spring led to a late bud break, reminiscent of the early years of the Willamette Valley. Summer temperatures were very warm, but ironically this caused the grape vines to shut down due to extreme temperatures, so sugars levels stayed low. Fortunately, a warm September allowed us to catch up a bit at the end of summer, and a dry October gave us a long window for harvesting.
